- Lyricism101: This month my highlighted program is Lyricism 101. Ms. Destiny started meeting with teens, to introduce herself and the program. Ms. Destiny was able to get the studio up and running with the few equipment that we have. Teens were able to play music, free style, record through the computer, and learn different parts of Garage Band. Teens were super excited to rap, sing and having it replayed back to them to hear. I see this program being successful. Ms. Destiny and the teens are coming up with new ideas and activities for lyricism 101.... I see a “Drop the Mic Night” coming in the near future!

Any collaborations with other organizations:

C.A.N Community Health Center The goal is letting our teens lead the group and getting their thoughts on paper. Teaching them the true meaning of a Red Ribbon and how it doesn't mean you have HIV. It means we all can fight against HIV and bring awareness to our community.

Power Hour (Speed Spelling Bee)

Teens were split up in teams and given magnetic letters. Each team had to use the letters to spell out the words out I called. The first team that was able to put the word together got 1 point. This game was a great power hour game. The teens started working together to sound out the more difficult words and asking for help. This spelling bee got real competitive.
